

PREFACE

Gaia Matrix is a geometric ark of life that encompasses and is embedded in the North American Tectonic Plate. This particular rendition of this gaigraphic study is focused on its impact on human neurological health.

This broad study has evolved over the years through collaboration with other researchers who have seen the correlation between their work and these gaigraphic patterns. Specifically, in this instance, Dr. Wayne London has taken my findings concerning ley lines and biomes and applied it to his research into neurologically “de-limbing” diseases, such as ALS. My documents, found on his web site, are written within the frame work of healing solutions. In many instances I paraphrase Dr. London’s ideas in my own words concerning neurological disease relationship. I encourage you to explore the depth of Dr. London’s healing solutions on web site www.spiritualcalculus.org.

In the process of this collaboration both of our initial ideas/ theories have evolved. I am deeply grateful for this opportunity to work with Wayne on this project. Particularly gratifying to us has been the mutually validating nature of our theories. The essential premises is that past events are held as memory in the earth’s neural net and affect present day neurological health.

Gaia’s Matrix is similarly salient to terrestrial biology, social- political organization, and demographic patterning. Welcome to a vital world where we see the interrelationship of all life, our mutually dependant relationship with our host planet.

LEY LINES

To split a Granite block in two, a quarryman first chisels a line where the split is to occur. This scoring of the surface gives the stone ‘memory’. The next step in this process is to drill small holes to accept the wedges that exert internal pressure on the stone, which then splits along the line of ‘memory’.

Ley lines are pathways for memories around and throughout our earth. These memories are seen in the relationship to like elements: mountains series, lakes series, series of bays, series of wars, holy place series, fault lines series, series of cities, pluton series, etc...., or with a combination of such relationship qualities. Further augmenting these series of natural and or cultural events that coalesce to create a ley are events that drill the karma deep into these ‘memory’ lines. The World Trade Towers along the City Ley is an example of a karmic hole along this ley.

Indigenous cultures honored ley lines as a benefit to the People by placing stone constructions (such as piles or standing stones) and ceremonial centers along leys. These culturally specific actions were utilized to focus telluric energy. This was done to promulgate health of the individual and society. The English prodigious stone construction efforts, beyond calendar sites, shows importance of the influence.

Ley lines are the nervous system of the earth and impact the nervous systems of biology. Ley Lines are wave forms, drawn as a line, that spiral and undulate like human DNA. It is thought that this morphogenetic resonance facilitates the transmission of memories held by the land into the cellular memory of the body, DNA.

Leys that are kinked or blocked can create a geopathic condition affecting DNA, health and social peace. Leys free of encumbrances (karma as such) conversely carry grace and power that benefits health and social peace by connecting our biology with that of the living healthy earth. Community disconnection from place leaves these pathways open to manifestations of chaotic toxicity. Ley range in size from planet wide to local. The hierarchy of leys are analogous to the electrical transmission grids. Leys are drawn as straight lines to indicate the center of single or multiple stranded wave forms. The nodes where these waves cross describe its line form.

Node points along leys are sequentially spaced like DNA. PHI (1:1.618...) is one such proportion. With Humans, a PHI base biology naturally resonates with its similar 'wave form'. It is therefore surmised that PHI proportioned leys are in resonance with the human and thus affect human cellular memory. Chromosome 21, is a Phi proportioned bar in human DNA. It is also on chromosome 21 that carries Alzheimer, ALS, Downs syndrome, and MS.

It follows therefore that unresolved karmic memories negatively impact the nervous system through 21 and other chromosomes. Reconnection with place and naturally occurring phi based cycles bring our bodies 'in phase' and return the memory of who we are. Healthfully planet... healthy people. In this regard the People and the land are one.

Leys with PHI sequencing are identified on the accompanying maps.

BIOME

The definitions of Biome (bi-om) are not specific. It is a hierarchical description given to an area that comprises a number of bioregions that combined to give a sense of place to a region i.e. Great Plains, New England, Southern States, Scandinavia. The more traditional 'biome' understanding groups similar land forms such as; tundra, mountain, plain, aquatic, desert and the like (this type of biome includes as a single biome the entire Rocky Mountain range from the Arctic north to Central America.) In our discussion the term 'biome' is used to describe an area with common geographical features.

In North America these biomes tend to be circular— fractals mirroring the circular shape of the continent. The center of a biomes often points to distinctive geologic features characteristic for the entire biome. Common characteristics personify the spirit and personality of the biomic place. Identifying unique aspects within a biome connects the human with the spirit and nature of the place. The memories carried by the biome can emerge from the collective geographic experience of the residents of that place. Seen as a biomic receiver the leys carry the karma transmitted to the biologically receptive populous.

Similar to a stone dropped in a pond, the biome generate ripples across the connected body. Where adjoining biomes expand outward an touch other biomes acts of friction occur, as in the New Madrid fault, Niagara Falls, and Harpers Ferry. (Harpers Ferry being site of John Brown's failed insurgency which significantly contributed to the start of the Civil War.) As well as each circular biomes having a distinctive sense of place, within each is a distinctive carrier wave Ley pattern. The biome receives and transmits tulleric and karmic information through the terrestrial carrier waves to human experience.

Biomes have miniature (mini) geometries embedded within them. Land geometries intergral to their structure, some highly complex but always with an intrinsic connective natural pattern (identified in many cultures as sacred geometry.) In the case of the New England Biome many geometries are embedded within it's continental expanse. To discern these structures, relationships emerge indicating their existence. Some areas have significantly more energy due to the relationship with the bedrock creating a more pronounced resonance, such as granite plutons. The New England biome is especially complex resulting from the collision/ movement of the earth's plates tectonic plates. In this present geologic time period the New England biome is the location of the center of the circular North American tectonic plate. Biomic rings radiate out from the New England biome and emanating out to precisely intersect with the center of other biomes. All of these connections to the overall area add to the significance of NE biome as the core biomic pattern of North America, if not the world. Nowhere else is there such geometric regularity as seen from the geography of the earth. While most biomes have a strong identification with their specific place characteristics, New England is a geometric convergence point of other related biomes, trans global leys, cultures, rivers, mountains, and coast lines. The pebble (such as WTC) dropped in this center area grows to encompass and directly affect the future of world civilization. Along with this potential, is also the positive opportunity to set a new pulse in motion-- a pulse of and for peace, reconciliation, karmic release and health.

The earth is a living biology— human ecology included. Humans are a pervasive organism in this biology. Positive interaction with the earth is of paramount importance for humanity's continuity.

Centuries of pain and pleasure associated with karmic significance are held as memories in the biomes.

Each biome has its unique expression. What follows is a list of North America biomes:

- New England Biome
- Maritime Biome
- Southern Biome
- Great Lakes Biome
- Oil Biome
- Black Hills Biome
- Great Basin Biome
- Western Mountain Biome
- Nunavut Biome
- Mayan Biome

The Big Picture/ Star Biomes

STAR BIOMES

In summary, simplistically stated: Star Biomes hold Karma, Leys transmit karma and phi proportioned sequencing transmit these earth energies and memories into human experience and cellular memory. In this way a mechanistic dynamic exists between culture and the land.

This mechanism can, of course, manifest both positively and negatively depending upon the location of historic events in relationship to the greater energetic matrix of the planet. The accompanying illustration describes such a dynamic within the context of the North American continent.

The gray (dash line) circles are harmonically sequenced expansions from the center of the NA continent (located in Shelburne Falls, Massachusetts). Secondary to these expansions are patterns called Biomes, arrayed within this greater matrix. Some of these Biomes possess a Star pattern. A star pattern correlates to geographically significant sites as an organizing mechanism around the biome's ring. Connecting these Biomes are ley lines that are continental and others that are trans global in scope. Where these leys and biomic rings intersect one finds cluster sites of neurological diseases. Because of this correlation between these specific places and these disease of the nervous system, it is theorized that the disease is the result of some dis-ease transmitted through these earth energy pathways.

It is surmised that events of cultural dynamics that have coalesced over the centuries result in certain memories becoming imbedded in the planet's vital systems. Further it is deducted that these same memories are transmitted along phi sequence leys into human neurological dysfunction. The vulnerability of the human to receive this energy does not criticize the phi, rather with the human proportion relation of phi, it is 'in' the human energy realm and if dysfunction exists it will release thru vulnerable human genetic patterns.

Memories that are unresolved coalesce and manifestations similar experience along on leys. Of particular note in the graphic is the City Ley. The City Ley has much to do with the European experience, an experience punctuated by centuries of warfare much related to the possession of land and people. Tracing this ley one comes to see locations along this ley where war begets war. This entrainment of war tends to stimulate further conflicts. At the same time (what I call) 'divine' victims unconsciously are enlisted to release unresolved planetary suffering through their illnesses. The events that trigger these illnesses, in their DNA are not necessarily local as these old memories are carried over distance by leys and received by biomes that add further memory entrainment. Star biomes, based on phi proportioned pentagrams and phi sequenced ley lines, have the greatest impact on phi proportioned human biology. To repeat. The layout of these organic planetary geometries suggest locations where healing and release of these unresolved memories can be facilitated. It is through these sites that a 'new script' can be entrained, a script that doesn't include the negative manifestations of prior historic culture, such as warfare, social dysfunction, and disease that has been so consistently entrained for centuries in these leys, biomes and matrices.

Arrayed around the center of the continent is a geometric pattern, which I have extensively mapped, named Gaia's Matrix or Arkhom. At the core of the continent Gaia Matrix is theorized to be the organizing fractal mechanism of the entire continent. Expanding this core pattern generates the radiant rings illustrated here. As a generator of culture, the memories held within this core geometry supports the status quo of American culture and power. (I have written extensively on this subject and geometry in my book: Gaia Matrix.)

This leads to the challenge to find a location to heal and release collective karma while being outside the constraining influence of the prevailing and entrained dysfunction set by centuries of war, genocide and generally lacking in life affirming energy. Tracing the patterns it is surmised that this site is in the area known as the Northeast Kingdom of Vermont.

The Northeast Kingdom is ideal for this work because it is connected yet apart. Historically it has seen little of the Native genocide and warfare perpetuated elsewhere. The geology of the Kingdom relates to strong electro-magnetic energy by being comprised of highly piezoelectric granite and shiest rock, as a transmission medium. South of the Kingdom is a significantly large deposit of copper located on the fault that connects to the Kingdom. Another mineral transmitter The Northeast Kingdom is on the edge of the White Mountain upthrust, a relatively new rock that can carry a new forms into the controlling matrix, ley lines and star biomes connect to this beautiful pristine corner of the world. It is theorized that the White mountains initialized the break of the super continent Pangea and growth pattern of this continent.

LANDSCAPE GEOMETRY

The follow illustration depicts the Arkhom landscape geometry. A landscape geometry is an naturally create geometry, naturally drawn out by the ley lines and biomes, mountains and rivers. The Arkhom landscape geometry is a 'mother' geometry in that one can generate multiple patterns from one initial pattern. Within the greater geometric are fractal forms of this mother form. This form is also a fractal form of the North American continent in total. Fractal geometry is a geometry that repeats in scale. (An example of this being the simple fern plant whose smallest leaf is similar in shape to the plant in total.)

Of note: included in this diagram is information on purchasing the book about this geometry called Gaia Matrix. (Dr. London contacted me following reading the book.)

Looking at the overall Arkhom geometry illustrates the transmission and reception of social and tulleric influences in NYC, Boston and other urban centers. NYC has five ley lines to feed its creativity. Without these leys NYC could not sustain its dynamism. The angle of the convergence of the leys, and geometric signature forms all address the potential of 'Place'. It is through the land that healing potential emerges.

The United States set its seed to grow in this area, despite prior attempts elsewhere, and it was from Arkhom that it grew into what it is today. It is through the interrelationships expressed in this geometry that a shift of consciousness can occur.

There are many findings and pieces of information that are related to elements of synchronicity that suggest opportunity, particularly in the face of the present destructive paradigm. This information is offered as a tool for an emerging new American culture. A seed form for a vital culture (renewable, sustainable...). It is hoped that this understanding can release the karmic cycles that perpetuate patterns of war, and social dysfunction.

Given in the spirit of renewal, please use this information with cautious respect and consciousness as to the power of action. With this information a blue print can be drawn for our future American society. Many have said I and my information are ahead of our time. It is more than I can fully understand, yet it is my contribution. Others add pieces to this puzzle small and large. I feel Dr. Wayne London has come to a primary understanding of the impact history has on personal health. It is vital, it is life affirming, it is here for our future. This is a gift from the planet and its creator. This information has many application for health, education, social relationships, to international relations.

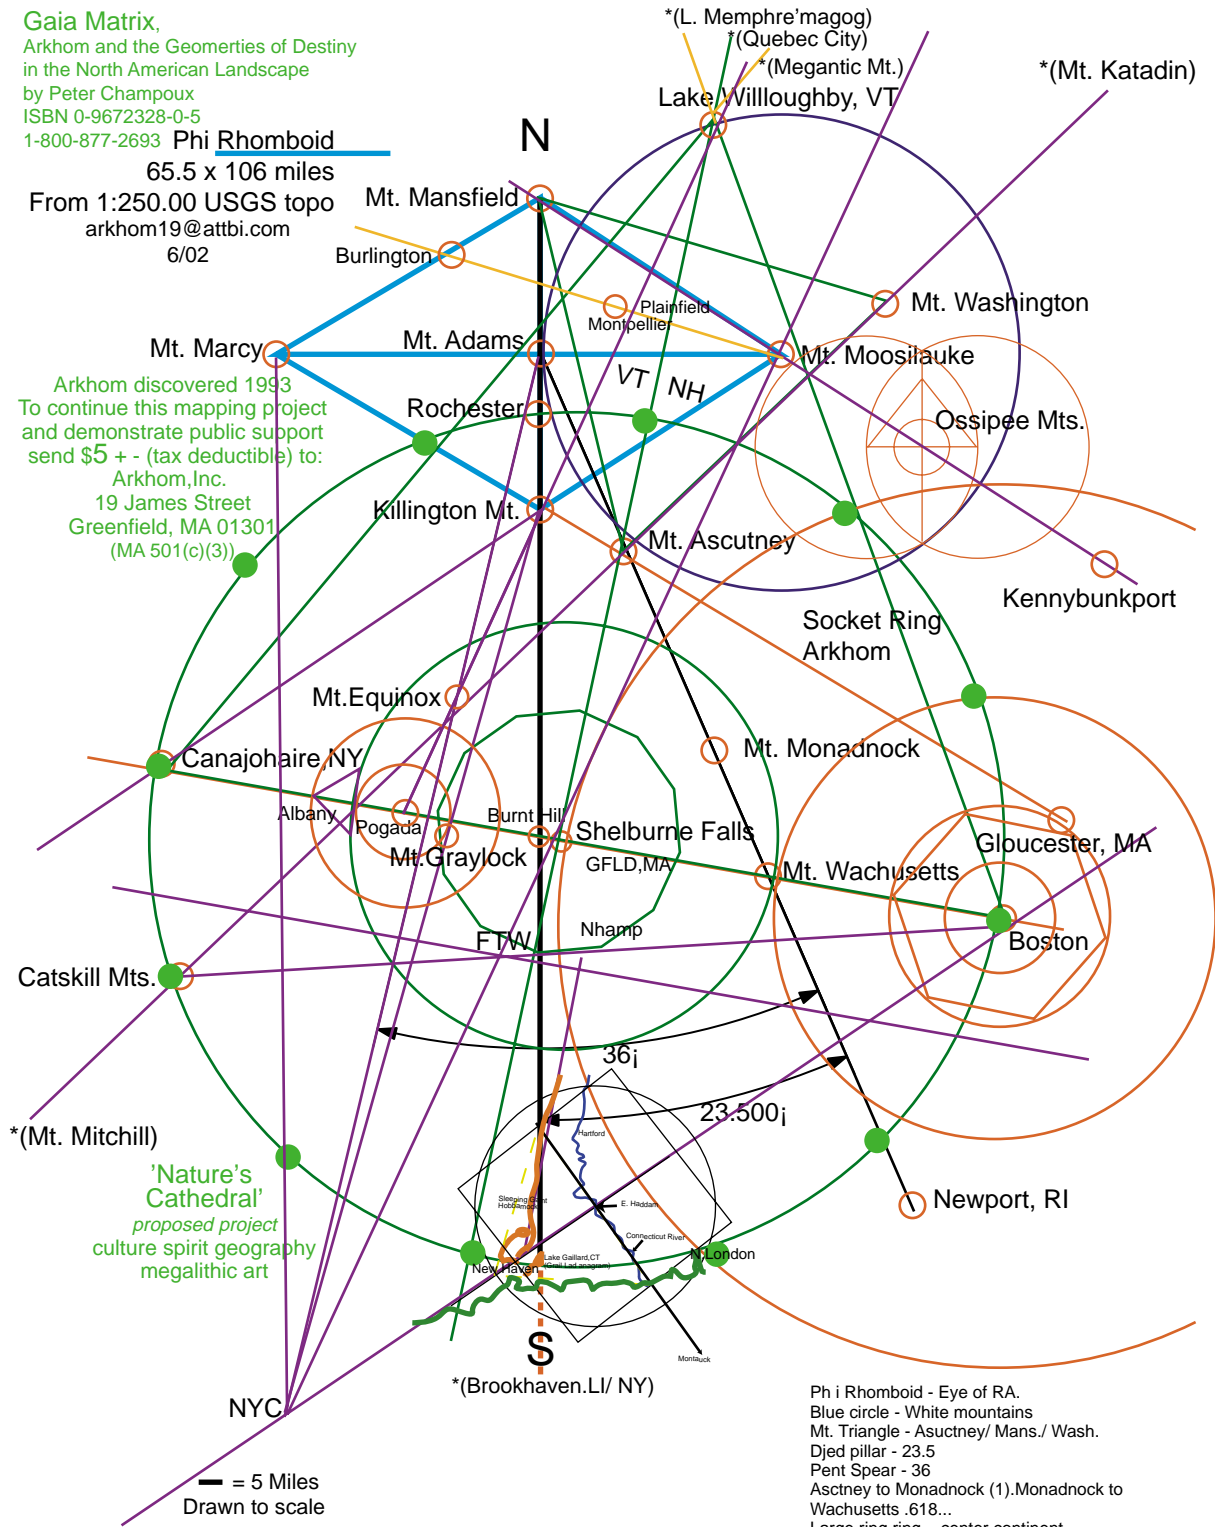

I am very grateful to be working with Dr. Wayne London in research that is mutually validating. With open eyes I am certain you too can see how your lives and experiences are augmented and supported by Gaia's matrix. If you would like to contribute and or collaborate in this endeavor, feel free to contact me at the address below, or come take a ride with me as I wait for the world to recognize the most important discovery of the 21 century.

Peter Champoux
19 James St.
Greenfield, MA
01301
arkhom19@attbi.com

Gaia Matrix,
 Arkhom and the Geometries of Destiny
 in the North American Landscape
 by Peter Champoux
 ISBN 0-9672328-0-5
 1-800-877-2693 Phi Rhomboid

65.5 x 106 miles
 From 1:250,000 USGS topo
 arkhom19@attbi.com
 6/02

Arkhom discovered 1993
 To continue this mapping project
 and demonstrate public support send $5 + - (tax deductible) to:
 Arkhom, Inc.
 19 James Street
 Greenfield, MA 01301
 (MA 501(c)(3))

Phi Rhomboid - Eye of RA.
 Blue circle - White mountains
 Mt. Triangle - Ascutney/ Mans./ Wash.
 Djed pillar - 23.5
 Pent Spear - 36
 Asctney to Monadnock (1).Monadnock to Wachusetts .618...
 Large ring ring = center continent
 Ley Lines and harmonics of New England